

New bowls wait to dry during a bowl-throwing evening at Southern Oregon University's ceramics lab.

BOWL FULL OF HOPE

Every spring for the past 10 years, the Empty Bowls project has raised both awareness and money to feed the hungry in the Rogue Valley. Potters from Clayfolk, Southern Oregon University students and members of Soroptimist International of Ashland make hundreds of handmade ceramic bowls that will be sold this year from 5 to 7 p.m. on April 3 at SOU's Thorndike Gallery.

Members of the Soroptimist Club and student volunteers throw bowls in SOU's ceramics lab. Left to Right: Erin Wahl, Kalina Dehle, Ashley Garboden, Stacia Jones, Taylor Lore, Debbie Jones, Christine Silva, Navarre Roush and Bethany Lang.

Taylor Lore forms a bowl on a pottery wheel.

Soroptimist members Erin Wahl, background, and Kalina Dehle make bowls.

Photos by Dennis Dunleavy